Roma Caput Mundi: World Heritage in Rome

Rome, caput mundi, is the city of cities. No other place in the world has played such an important role in the development of Western culture, from antiquity until today. Rome's history of three millennia is still tangible on every street corner and every square in the city, from the Capitol Hill to St. Peter's and from the classical Forum Romanum to Mussolini's Foro Italico.

In this course we will discuss the many ways to approach and think about this rich cultural heritage. What is so special about Rome? During fourteen days we will research these themes of imagination, authenticity and memory in the construction and presentation of Rome's world heritage. Participants in the course will actively become acquainted with the fascinating past and present of Rome, visiting and studying a series of famous and less-known sites.
